

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. 809. Enoch Worthen Eastman<sup>7</sup> (John<sup>6</sup>, Ephraim<sup>5</sup>, Jeremiah<sup>4</sup>, Zachariah<sup>3</sup>, John<sup>2</sup>, Roger<sup>1</sup>), born in Deerfield, N. H., April 15, 1810; died at Eldora, Ia., Jan. 9, 1885; married 1st, in Philadelphia, Pa., Sarah Caroline Greenough, daughter of Richard Greenough, of Canterbury, N. H. She was born Oct. 19, 1816, died June 17, 1861. She was a graduate of Holyoke Seminary, Mass., was a highly accomplished lady, and proved a most excellent wife and mother. She died of typhoid fever. Mr. Eastman married 2d, in 1864, Amanda Hall, of Windsor, N. Y. Mr. Eastman was a lawyer; was admitted to the bar at the June term of the supreme court in Concord, N. H., in 1840; removed in 1844 to Burlington, Ia., and from that time until his death was actively connected with the advancement of the best interests of that state. He was a man of great force of character; popular as a public speaker, and known and loved throughout the state as "Old Enoch," a title bestowed because, like of old, he was noted for his wisdom and sound judgment. He was the author of the motto engraved upon the memorial stone in the Washington monument, contributed by the state of Iowa: "The affections of her people, like the rivers of her border, flow to an inseparable union." He was elected lieutenant-governor in 1863, and presided over the senate with distinction in the troublous times of 1864. He was a member of the Iowa senate at the time of his death.

MRS. ENOS EASTMAN (865).

ried in Sandy Creek, N. Y., Jan. 11, 1844, Miriam Carpenter, born in Sandy Creek, N. Y., Feb. 16, 1822, daughter of Asa and Louisa (Wood) Carpenter. Mr. Eastman spent his boyhood days on the farm, and also the first five years of their married life near Ellisburg. In June, 1849, Mr. Eastman went to Wisconsin and purchased 160 acres of land on the banks of the Mullet River, for which he paid $700. A few weeks later he returned to New York for his wife and their two children, and they started on their return to Wisconsin in August, driving as far as Buffalo in a one-horse wagon, and thence by steamboat, arriving in Sheboygan after a passage of four days. The family immediately located upon the land which he had purchased, and at the time contained but a small log cabin on the site of their present home. The land which Mr. Eastman had purchased was heavily timbered, and only about an acre had been cleared up. Later he purchased 180 acres more, and the entire farm of 340 acres is still owned by him, with the exception of the right of way which he granted to the Milwaukee and Northwestern Railroads and a few small portions which have been sold. The farm is one of the most productive and valuable in the county. Mr. Eastman has always been prominently identified with the growth and progress of Sheboygan county. He has held many offices of trust, including town clerk, town superintendent, justice of the peace, and chairman of the county board. In 1870 he was elected to the assembly and in 1874 to the state senate. In all the public positions to which Mr. Eastman has from time to time been called to fill, he has, without exception, performed the duties in a faithful and competent manner. He was one of the organizers of the Plymouth Farmers' Fire Insurance Association, of which he was for some time president and later a director. Politically Mr. Eastman has always been a Democrat. In his religious views he is independent and liberal. Mrs. Eastman is a devout member of St. Paul's Episcopal Church. On Jan. 11, 1900, Mr. and Mrs. Eastman celebrated the fifty-sixth anniversary of their marriage. The celebration was an unpretentious affair, and consisted, with few exceptions, of the reunion of the family. Although this couple are well along in years, they are both in good health, and show very little effect of the early hardships they underwent during the pioneer days. They are among the best known and most highly respected residents of Sheboygan county. Mr. Eastman has taken a great interest in the genealogy of the Eastman family, and to him the compiler is indebted for the most of the records of his great-grandfather, Jonathan Eastman, and descendants.

Mr. Eastman was a man of strong convictions, of fixed and positive opinions in regard to religion and politics. He was called "Squire Eastman" in Rumford and Mexico, and his advice was sought by his townsmen on all important affairs. He was greatly interested in the moral and educational wants of the community in which he lived, and filled many town offices. By various methods, and as opportunities presented themselves, he labored for the improvement and uplifting of the human heart. He had been disciplined and strengthened from boyhood by the difficulties of pioneer life, so it seemed no hardship for him, even with small pecuniary resources, to fit himself and children to fill the higher positions in life. He used to say, "the youth who has not energy enough to educate himself 'is not worth educating.'" He was an earnest and outspoken anti-slavery man, at the time when it cost something to take such a stand. He lived to see five of his sons go through the Civil War, in which he himself was a patriot.

married 1st, Sept. 26, 1832, Elouisa B. Simmons, of Dorchester, Mass., died Aug. 12, 1844 ; married 2d, May 12, 1845, in Roxbury, Mass., Rebecca L. Humphries, born in Roxbury, Mass., Aug. 29, 1814, daughter of John and Mary (Palmer) Humphries. She died Jan. 26, 1901. When Mr. Eastman was seventeen years of age, he was apprenticed to a wagon maker in Quincy, Mass., with whom he lived until coming of age. He then established the business on his own account in Roxbury, until he removed to Illinois, in 1834.

During his residence in Massachusetts, among other events of interest, Mr. Eastman remembered the first railroad built in 1825, for the purpose of transporting the granite for Bunker Hill monument from the quarry at Quincy to the Neponset river. When the corner stone was laid, July 17, 1825, he saw Lafayette, and heard Daniel Webster deliver his oration. In 1834 he saw the first steam engine ever run on a railroad in the United States, run over the Boston & Worcester Railroad. In 1845, when on a visit to the east, he saw the first telegraph line just completed between Baltimore and Washington.

In Aug., 1834, Mr. Eastman left Massachusetts for Illinois, going via the Atlantic ocean, up the Hudson river, Erie canal, Lake Erie, the Mississippi and Illinois rivers, and located in the township of Griggsville, Pike county, where he entered land about three and a half miles from the village, then a small place of about a dozen houses. The next spring he built a shop on his farm, and for three years worked at his trade, attending also to the development of his lands, and building up his fortunes by industry, prudence and enterprise. He was one of the first wood workers in the town, and many of the old settlers remember the services he rendered them, in repairing or making wood work for plows, repairing wagons, and other work of the kind. He retained possession of his farm until 1872, although he had taken up his residence in Griggsville five years before. He never placed himself before the public as an office seeker, or as one who desired to attract attention, but quietly pursued an upright course in life, honoring his Christian profession, and exhibiting the characteristics of noble manhood. He was always a staunch supporter of Whig and Republican principles, casting his first presidential vote in 1832 for Henry Clay, and his last for William McKinley in 1896. For sixty-seven years he was a member of the Baptist church, and for sixty, he held the office of deacon, and for thirty-four, superintendent of the Sabbath school.

Jane Ambrose Eastman was educated at Bradford, Mass., and was a brilliant scholar and forcible writer, a charming conversationalist, and rendered very valuable aid to her husband, who for a season published the Union Democrat at Manchester, N. H. Mr. Farnsworth fitted for college at New Hampshire Conference Seminary, graduating from Dartmouth in the class of 1854, and after teaching a season in the Concord high school, purchased with Hon. John Goodale the Union Democrat, at Manchester, and later bought out his partner. He became in 1862 a paymaster in the army, with rank of major, at New Orleans, under General Banks, leasing his paper to Gage, Adams and Moore. Retiring on a furlough in 1863, he bought off the lease and sold his paper to John B. Clarke, which was afterwards called the Mirror and American. He was in 1857 associate editor of the New Hampshire Journal of Education. After the war he was appointed to a position in the custom house at St.

Paul, which position he held but a few months on account of failing health. Desiring to reach home before his death, he started, but was taken from the cars at Prairie du Chien, Wis., and died there. His remains were brought to East Concord, and buried there.

CHILD.

- i. Jennie Chamberlain Watts<sup>8</sup>, b. Aug. 5, 1869. Jane Chamberlain Watts is a graduate of the Boston English high school. During her collegiate course in Radcliff College, Cambridge, Mass., she received the highest second year honors in history, and at a later date, the highest final honors in history. At her graduation in 1897 the degree of A. B. was conferred upon her, and at the same time summa cum laude in general department was given her. In 1898 she took the degree of A. M. from her Alma Mater. Thus far Miss Watts is the only lady who has taken the highest final honors in history in Radcliff College. In addition to the above honors, she received sixteen A marks out of the eighteen courses required to graduate at the college; this, in addition to her other qualifications, would give her summa cum laude.

JENNIE C. WATTS (1046 i).

In 1888-89 she spent in Europe; in 1898 she was appointed fellow in history in the University of Wisconsin; in Feb., 1900, she had an attack of the grip, and as soon as she gains her health she will take the degree of Ph. D. It is an interesting fact that a lineal descendent of Colonial and Revolutionary heroes should become such an enthusiastic and successful student in American history. Miss Watts has written several valuable papers, which have been highly appreciated by competent judges of history, such as "Our Relations to the French Revolution," and the "Application of the Monroe Doctrine to the Present Condition of China." She was a charter member of the Mary Washington chapter, D. A. R., of Washington, D. C., where she spends the winter (1900) with her aunts; she is unm. and makes her home in Braintree, Mass.

FOOT NOTE.

1. Benjamin Carr was born in London, Eng., Aug. 18, 1592. He married Martha Hardington, in London, Sept. 2, 1613. Their children were Robert, Caleb, Richard and Andrew.

2. Robert Carr was born in London, Eng., Oct. 4, 1614; came to America with his brother Caleb, on the ship "Elizabeth Ann," commanded by Capt. Roger Cooper, which sailed from London, May 9, 1635. These two brothers, who were both minors, were sent to America, after the death of their parents, to live with their uncle William, who had previously settled at what was afterwards Bristol, R. I. In 1636 this small family was joined by Roger Williams and a colony of "Friends," when Captain Williams layed out the boundaries of Rhode Island and named the settlement Bristol.

A few years later the two brothers settled in Newport, R. I.

Robert Carr was admitted as an inhabitant in Portsmouth, Feb. 21, 1639, and a Freeman in Newport, March 16, 1641. He acquired a large estate and died in 1681. The name of his wife is not known. His brother Caleb held many offices of trust and honor during his lifetime and was made governor of the colony in 1695, which office he held until his death, which occurred in December of the same year. Robert Carr's children were as follows, viz.: Caleb, Elizabeth, Mary, Robert, Esek and Margaret.

3. Caleb Carr was born in Newport, R. I.; married Phillis Greene, daughter of Deputy Gov. John Greene, of Warrick, R. I., and lived in Jamestown, R. I., on land willed him by his father. He died in 1690. His children were Robert (died young), Caleb, William, Robert, Job, Mary and Phillis.

4. Caleb Carr was born in Jamestown, R. I., March 23, 1679; married Joanna Slocum, April 30, 1701. She bore him these children, viz.: Caleb, Joseph, Patience, Mary and William. His second wife, Mary —, bore him Benajah and Charles Carr.

5. Caleb Carr was born in Jamestown, R. I., Nov. 6, 1702, and died in West Greenwich, R. I., in 1769. His wife Sarah was born Nov. 8, 1711, and died in Nov., 1798. Their children were Patience, Mary, Rebecca, Susanna, Robert, Merebah, Comfort, Caleb, Eleazer, Joshua, Richmond, Edward and Thurston.

6. Edward Carr was born in West Greenwich, R. I., July 4, 1753; married Eleanor Spencer, Dec. 15, 1776. She was born June 22, 1754, and died in Stephenstown, N. Y., March 20, 1798. He had four other wives as follows, viz.: Mary Brown Green, a widow, whom he married, Sept. 26, 1798; Sarah Potter, a widow, whom he married, May 26, 1806; Margaret Lamfier, a widow, whom he married, Aug. 12, 1832; Bridget Williams, a widow, whom he married Dec. 14, 1836. He was one of the founders of the Baptist church in Stephenstown, where he first settled when a young man. For a number of years before his death he was both blind and deaf. He died Sept. 1, 1845, at the age of 92 years. His children all by his first wife were Sarah, Susanna, Peleg, Spencer, Merebah, Eleanor, Edward, Mary, Peleg Slocum, Tracy and Mercy.

7. Spencer Carr was born in Stephenstown, N. Y., May 2, 1784; married Zylphia Goodrich, July 22, 1804. She was born April 28, 1786, and died Nov. 19, 1842. Their children all born in New Lebanon were Amanda, Malvira, Eleanor Almira, William Spencer, Elijah Goodrich, Sarah Ann, Caroline, Edward, Lucy Ann (see No. 1051), Caleb, Henry Augustus, Cornelius B. and Louisa, married John Underwood Eastman (No. 1054).

Early in life he was apprenticed to learn the trade of printer, and while serving his time as such applied himself diligently to the acquirement of an education also. Soon after reaching manhood he went to Washington, D. C., where he met for the first time his wife.

Impressed with his sterling qualities and capacities for usefulness, Hon. James Knox Polk invited him to Tennessee in 1839, and under the auspices of that distinguished man, in that year, he moved to Knoxville and established the Knoxville Argus, and from that time continued the leading Democratic editor in East Tennessee, until Colonel Polk was elected president of the United States, when, to better his financial condition, he accepted an office in Washington under the new administration. Soon after, however, he was called to take charge of the Nashville Union, the editorship of which he assumed in 1846, at which time he moved to Nashville with his family. Afterwards he became the editor of the Nashville American, and then the principal editor of the consolidated papers, the Union and American, which position he occupied until the time of his death.

As an editor he became celebrated for the terseness and pungency of his style, and as a writer of vigorous and spirited paragraphs.

Strong in all respects in his profession, in this rare quality he had few superiors, and perhaps never an equal in Tennessee. But his principal forte as an editor was his excellent judgment in determining the course and policy of his paper.

Mr. Eastman has been a very successful business man, and is much respected by all with whom he comes in contact; he has been the president of the Eastman Association, of Concord, a number of times. Mr. Eastman is a publisher and stationer of Concord, and his establishment is one of the largest of the kind in the state.

CHILDREN.

- i. Seth<sup>s</sup>, b. in Concord, N. H., Nov. 12, 1855; d. in New York city, Oct. 8, 1889; he was buried in the family lot in Blossom Hill cemetery, at Concord. He obtained his education mainly in the public schools of Concord. Upon the completion of his studies, he entered the publishing and book-selling establishment of his father, continuing his connection therewith for a number of years. Although evincing superior business abilities, a natural ambition induced him to acquire a profession, and having given some thought to the science of medicine, for which he had an inherent taste and aptitude, he decided to adopt it as his life's work, and accordingly began his studies in the office of Dr. S. C. Morrill. Here he continued till ready to begin his college course, when he entered the Vermont Medical College, and remained through the regular three years course, graduating with distinction. A post-graduate course was taken at the New York College of Physicians and Surgeons, upon the conclusion of which he was tendered and accepted the position of assistant surgeon at the Chambers street (New York) hospital. While there he obtained an appointment as surgeon on one of the steamships of the Alexander line, running from New York to Vera Cruz. While proceeding on board the vessel, while in port at New Orleans, he received a telegram from his father announcing the illness of his mother, and without a moment's hesitation he threw up his commission, and returning home, remained throughout her illness. After a short period, he went into practice at Danvers, Mass. After a few months' practice here he accepted a commission as surgeon on the United States and Brazilian Steamship Line. After three years service, he resigned to accept a similar position on the Rotterdam line of steamships. The first serious development of the disease which ended his life occurred at the termination of his voyage in Sept., 1888. Upon reaching Amsterdam, he went to a hotel to call upon some friends, and hurriedly ascending two flights of stairs, was seized with a hemorrhage of the lungs. He was confined to his bed for six weeks, but skilful medical treatment given him by Dr. Denny, of Boston, a warm, personal friend and physician at

Amsterdam, and careful, tender nursing on the part of his sister Belle, who went to Europe immediately upon learning of his sickness, so far restored him to health that he was able to proceed to Barbadoes Islands, where he went accompanied by his sister and nurse. A winter's residence was productive of beneficial results, and in May he returned to New York and resumed his former position as surgeon on the Brazilian line of steamships, where he remained three months, but finding his health again failing, he obtained a leave of absence, and began making preparations for a visit to friends in Georgia, hoping thereby to obtain rest and recuperation. His father went to New York early in Oct. to assist him in his preparations for departure, and while walking on the street, Doctor Seth complained of fatigue and faintness, and was taken immediately to his apartments. Though given the best of medical treatment and nursing, he continued to fail till the time of his death. He retained full possession of his mental faculties till the last moment of his life, conversing affectionately with his wife, with whom his marriage had been solemnized during his last sickness, and with his father and sister Belle. Doctor Cutler, of New York, an old friend, was constantly with him during his last sickness. Doctor Eastman had friends. He made them everywhere, and he retained to the last their attachment. He met death with fortitude. Living, he scattered about him the smile of hope; dying, he desired to cast no shadows on life's pathway.

When about fifty years of age, he gave up his mercantile ventures and invested in timber lands in Maine, where he built mills and became interested in iron-mining and other enterprises, the management and responsibility of which devolved upon him to a greater extent than he could have anticipated.

He was chosen presidential elector in 1849. He was elected mayor of Salem in 1851. He was president of the Essex Railroad and also of the Salem and Danvers Aqueduct.

Salem has had many public spirited, and for its numbers not a few great, men. It would not be easy to point to the name of one to whom it could be proved that the obligations of the city are greater than they are to David Pingree.

1100. George Wilson Sanborn<sup>7</sup> (Fanny Eastman<sup>6</sup>, Simon<sup>5</sup>, Obadiah<sup>4</sup>, Ebenezer<sup>3</sup>, Philip<sup>2</sup>, Roger<sup>1</sup>), born in Sandwich, N. H., May 11, 1822; married March 24, 1846, Mary Ann Brown, daughter of Dea. Jonathan and Mary Ann (Clough) Brown. During the prolonged and last sickness of his mother, George was kindly taken by his uncle, Jeremiah Wilson, Esq., and wife, Abigail Prescott Sanborn, sister of George's father, to their home in Gilmanton, but a few miles distant, probably in part, at least, as a measure of relief to his parents. After his mother's death, which occurred when George was three years and three days old, he was returned to his father's house. There under the changed conditions it was to him home no longer, and he earnestly begged to return to his uncle's, where he had undoubtedly been petted and indulged, they having no children. His wishes were complied with. He returned to his uncle's and has had a home there to this time. He inherited from his foster-parents the old homestead, originally the property of his great-grandfather, Humphrey Wilson, an original proprietor of the town of Gilmanton, granted in 1727. Each generation holding the place has made large additions, and the farm now includes what was formerly quite a number of farms and contains nearly eight hundred acres, with another tract of wood and pasture land of about the same amount. Mr. Sanborn built mills for sawing and working lumber, threshing, and grinding, constructed a water reservoir of over forty acres for irrigation and water-power, made canals for and carried on the most extensive system of irrigation in the eastern section of the country. He has never sought political advancement, but his fellow townsmen have twice chosen him as their representative to the general court and about fifty times moderator in their town meetings.

engaged in the druggist's business in Concord, N. H. He was a member of the New Hampshire house of representatives from Concord three successive terms, and speaker of the house in 1856 and 1857; was elected to the house of representatives in the congress of the United States, 1861, and was chosen for a second and third term; May 25, 1869, he was chosen secretary and assistant treasurer, and subsequently treasurer of the Union Pacific Railroad. Mr. Rollins was a very active politician, and was for a long time chairman of the Republican state committee of New Hampshire, and the growth and success of the Republican party in the state are unquestionably owing, in no inconsiderable degree, to his indefatigable zeal and unflagging energy. So completely had he canvassed the state, prior to the crowning effort of the Republicans (the election of Grant to the presidency), that his estimate of the vote, a month before election, varied but a trifle from the actual count.

The firm also owned and operated a saw mill and grist mill, and Mr. Eastman senior was for a time associated with Mr. Elijah Stanton in owning and operating a chair factory, and specimens of their work is now in possession of his grandson in Minneapolis.

In 1869 Mr. Eastman senior sold his interest in the mill and in 1871 went to Minneapolis, Minn., when he purchased an interest in the lumber firm of which his brother, William Wallace, was a member. This firm was known as Eastman, Bovey & Co. Mr. Eastman was passionately fond of music and was a fine bass singer, a member of the Conway Brass Band, and always interested in everything pertaining to music. He was a captain in the state militia for many years, finally being honorably discharged from service. He was all his life an old line Democrat and possessed the confidence of his party, being often urged to accept the nomination for some town or county office, but he always declined, saying, "there are others that want it, let them have it."

Once, however, after much pressure had been brought to bear by his friends, he consented to have his name placed upon the ticket for representative to the state legislature and in 1864 was elected, his vote running ahead of his party ticket. He was also elected the following year, serving two years. He still owned property in Conway, and in 1872 closed out there and removed his family to Minneapolis. The latter years of his life he was a great sufferer from sciatica, which eventually caused his death.

- ii. Clarence Edward<sup>8</sup>, b. in Conway, N. H., March 4, 1848; m. Jan. 23, 1877, Annie Maria Cleaves, b. May 21, 1849; resides in Minneapolis, Minn. When quite young total blindness came upon him in one night, but later an operation was performed, which restored partial sight. After about two years his eyes became strong enough for reading and study, and by careful work much of the lost time was regained. He is of an inventive turn of mind and has taken out a number of patents. His wife is the daughter of George Lewis and Mary (Strout) Cleaves, of Bridgeton, Me.; she is descended from a long line of Revolutionary ancestry on both sides. Her early life was passed in attending, and later in teaching school until her marriage; they have no children.

At the age of twenty he left home for Boston, and found employment in the wholesale house of Fales & Dana. In 1844 he embarked for South America, where he remained for about a year in the importing house of Zimmermann, Fraizier & Co., of Buenos Ayres. In 1845 he returned to Boston, and in 1847 again embarked for South America, in the ship "Cheshire," as super-cargo, with a stock of goods for Rio Janeiro and Buenos Ayres, and returned with a cargo of hides. In Dec., 1849, he sailed for California around Cape Horn, and arrived in San Francisco, June 17, 1850. He went to the mines, to Feather River, Grass Valley and Nevada City, where he worked several placer claims with good results. He next sailed for Southern California, landing at San Pedro, and going to Los Angeles, which was solely occupied by Spaniards and Indians, raising cattle. Here he bought about six thousand cattle, and drove them to Stockton and sold them.

Returning to San Francisco, he purchased a schooner and went into the carrying trade between Mexico and California ports. Disposing of his schooner and cargo at San Francisco, he returned to Los Angeles and remained some three years, his business being to forward consignments, principally of fruit, to San Francisco. While here he sent about a thousand dollars to South America and to the Isthmus, and purchased young orange trees, which he planted at Los Angeles, San Gabriel and San Bernardino. This was the beginning of the orange industry in California.

In 1853 he purchased a consignment of mining implements and quartz crushers at San Francisco, and sailed for Melbourne, via the Sandwich Islands. These were the first quartz crushers brought to Australia. After disposing of his goods, he returned to San Francisco and shortly sailed for New York, taking the Nicaragua route, arriving in January, 1854. He returned to Conway, and on March 9, 1854, married Susan Maria Farrington, daughter of Jeremiah Farrington.

Soon they started west, and settled in St. Anthony, now Minneapolis. Among Mr. Eastman's early enterprises was the establishing of the town at Merrimac, some miles below St. Paul. A company was formed, several farms purchased, and a saw mill erected, but a freshet changing the channel of the river, the scheme was abandoned.

Mr. Eastman was the first man to originate and carry out the enterprise of erecting a large flour mill at St. Anthony Falls. Associated with him were John Rollins and R. P. Upton. They built the Minnesota Flouring Mill on the east side of Hennepin Island, and the next year W. W. Eastman became a partner. The mill had three run of stone, and manufactured one hundred barrels of flour per day, and was a success from the start, notwithstanding the many obstacles encountered in its erection. The wheat was supplied in part by the neighboring farmers, but the larger portion of it came from Iowa and Wisconsin in boats to St. Paul, and thence to St. Anthony by teams. The market, in addition to the local consumption, was with emigrants who took thousands of barrels in their "prairie schooners" in their westward course; also to the fur traders of the Red River Valley of the North.

In 1857 Captain Rollins retired from the firm, and in 1858 W. W. Eastman retired, and Mr. Upton sold out to William F. Cahill. The firm now became Eastman &

Cahill, and the mill name changed to Island Mills. The mill was remodeled and enlarged, having five run of stone, and a capacity of five hundred barrels a day, and employed fifteen men. This change cost $45,000. The first flour exported to eastern markets was made by this mill. During the war of the Rebellion, many thousands of barrels were supplied to the army, the firm taking large government contracts. The flour was shipped direct to Rock Island, and from there distributed to the army. The poorest grades of flour in those days, made from the middlings, were shipped to the Indians on the Missouri river, also by government contract. The best grades of flour were branded "Island Mills" and "Gold Dust." After the war regular shipments of flour to the eastern markets began. The annual output from the mills of Eastman & Cahill for several years averaged about thirty-two thousand barrels.

Atwater's History of Minneapolis, says: "The building of this mill marked an epoch in the history of Minneapolis, as the history of flour manufacturing commenced at that date, and the energy and enterprise manifested by the builders and projectors under such very discouraging circumstances, is worthy of commendation. What a result has been achieved from this modest beginning! Messrs. Rollins, Eastman and Upton little thought that they were the pioneers in establishing an industry at the falls of St. Anthony, which would in a few years make the recently named city of Minneapolis famous the world over."

Eastman and Cahill were also proprietors of large cooper shops located on the lower end of Hennepin Island, employing about one hundred men.

In 1867 the Minneapolis Millers Association was organized, and Eastman and Cahill became charter members of that body.

After retiring from the flour business in 1869, Mr. Eastman, in company with Elijah Moulton, built a large planing and re-sawing mill on Hennepin Island. In a few years he sold out his interest to Mr. Moulton.

Mr. Eastman built three houses on University Avenue, near Eighth Avenue S., the first in 1854, and the other two in 1880, where he resided since coming to Minnesota. Mr. Eastman was a Royal Arch Mason ; a Republican in politics, and voted on the admitting of both California and Minnesota into the Union.

During the latter years of his life, Mr. Eastman became a great reader, not only of the current literature of the day, but of scientific and philosophical works. On February 19, 1899, Mr. Eastman died. In the obituary notices, the Minneapolis Journal says :

“ John Whittemore Eastman, a resident of Minneapolis for the past forty-five years, a pioneer flour miller and one of the leading men of the city, passed away yesterday morning at his home, 716 University Avenue S. E. Death was due to paralysis of the heart. Last December Mr. Eastman had a severe attack of the grip, from which he never completely recovered. Yesterday morning he complained of pains in the chest, and as his condition continued to grow serious, physicians were summoned. Death came soon after their arrival. The funeral will take place to-morrow afternoon, at 2 o'clock, from the residence. The Rev. M. D. Hardin, pastor of Andrew Presbyterian church, of which the deceased was a member, will conduct the services. The remains will be taken to Lakewood cemetery. The deceased leaves a wife and two sons, Dr. Arthur M. Eastman, of St. Paul, and Alfred F. Eastman, of Skaguay.”

The Minneapolis Tribune, in its notice, says :

“ Mr. Eastman came to Minneapolis in 1854, and built the first flour mill ever erected in this city. Since the early pioneer days he has been closely identified with the business and commercial interests of Minneapolis, and has always been one of the most enterprising and progressive citizens, esteemed and honored by a large circle of friends and business acquaintances.”

The Minneapolis Times, in closing its lengthy obituary notice, says: “ Few men have done more for the upbuilding of Minneapolis and few will be more earnestly mourned by her citizens.”

On June 13, 1900, Mrs. Eastman died, after a brief illness, of pneumonia. She was a woman of many virtues, a loving, devoted mother, an earnest Christian, and a warm friend. As the Rev. Mr. Hardin said, her presence was a benediction to all who knew her, and her memory will be sacred to all.

His youth and early manhood were spent in Conway. He was educated in the town school, the North Conway Academy and the South Conway Seminary. During his early years he was principally occupied working in his father's paper mill, in which he had an interest, and driving a stage through the mountains.

In 1850 he went to California by way of the Isthmus, but landing in San Francisco sick he started home after two weeks, taking the same route, and after enduring many hardships, arrived safely.

WILLIAM W. EASTMAN (1814).

He came to St. Anthony, now Minneapolis, in 1854, and became a partner in the Minnesota flouring mill, with his brother. Here he remained a partner until 1858, when he sold out, and formed a partnership with Paris Gibson, and built the first flour mill on the west side, which they named the Cataract Mills. It was a five run stone mill, and soon the "Cataract" brand of flour had a great reputation. In a few years Eastman & Gibson built the North Star Woolen Mill on the west side. It became famous for its blankets, which always took first premium wherever exhibited. The North Star Woolen Mill still continues as one of the industries of Minneapolis.

Mr. Eastman built the first paper mill on the east side, in 1860, in partnership with Mr. Secombe. He also built the first wheat elevator in the state, in 1866, at Washington Avenue and Ninth Avenue S. Messrs. Eastman and Gibson and G. H. Eastman built the Anchor Flouring Mill, a twelve run stone mill, the largest then in the city. This was traded to ex-Gov. John S. Pillsbury for his wholesale hardware stock and business. The Anchor mill is now one of the Pillsbury plant. He also engaged in the lumber business, the firm being Eastman, Bovey & Co. They became large owners of pine lands, and extensive manufacturers. Of this firm his brother-in-law, Mr. John De Laittre, and later, his brother, H. D. Eastman, became partners. Mr. Eastman is still a large owner of timber lands in Washington.

In 1869 Mr. Eastman originated an enterprise which promised not only to add to his own fortune, but to greatly increase the upbuilding of Minneapolis as a manufacturing center. He had been the first to demonstrate on the west side that water power could be utilized by a system of tunneling, and had made available power and land that could not be otherwise used. Mills valued at not less than a half million dollars were then being operated by his system, which included the North Star Woolen Mill. As compensation for this work, the West Side Water Power Co. gave him a perpetual lease of 250 horse power, which was afterwards utilized for the Anchor mill. He now proposed to develop another power that would eclipse the already famous west side.

He purchased Nicollet Island, a large tract of land lying in the river just above St. Anthony Falls, containing forty acres. He designed to have the south part covered with mills and factories. To supply water power to these, he organized the Tunnel Company, which built a tunnel about 2,500 feet long. The tunnel was 6x6 feet, and was to act as a tail race for the factories which were to be built over it. Euthusiasm for this great work began to spread, and Mr. Eastman was regarded as a public benefactor, and the founder of a great manufacturing nucleus ; but alas !

“ The best laid schemes o' mice an' men
Gang aft agley,
And lea'e us nought but grief an' pain

On October 4, 1869, the workmen in the tunnel struck the spring or seam in the sandstone, which opened the passage from the bottom of the river into the tunnel. Volumes of water forced the workmen to withdraw. The tunnel was converted into an underground river, and an immense malstrom appeared not far from the west shore of Nicollet Island. It was plain that the erosion of the water would ruin the falls, and totally destroy the island. A general alarm was sounded, and the entire population of the city rushed to the island. Thousands of men and scores of teams were volunteered to stop the gap. Several methods were tried, but were unsuccessful. At the time Mr. Eastman was east, and received telegrams stating the particulars of the calamity. He replied that the only way to stop it was by means of cofferdams, and on the morning of the 6th this method was commenced. This was the beginning of a mighty struggle between the city and the United States on one side, and the Mississippi river on the other. It was a struggle of ten years, such as the people of Holland wrestled with the North Sea. It was a fight for existence. A struggle in which Minneapolis fought for its future greatness. In money it cost $879,500, and in brain energy, untold work. To Mr. Eastman credit may not only be given for suggesting the best method of stopping the first break, but also for conceiving the great engineering idea of building an immense stone dike, which finally saved the immense water power of Minneapolis from destruction.

Hon. H. T. Welles, in his biography, says: "The tunnel had been a blessing in disguise, and it revealed hidden dangers. Mr. W. W. Eastman, with the best of intentions, had been unwittingly a great benefactor to the community. Until he made that excavation no one knew of the percolating rivulets that were waiting only the slightest invitation to become gushing torrents, and vent the waters of the whole river through the soft sandstone under the limestone ledge which would fall into the chasm; and instead of the falls which would be no more, there would be miles of rapids, extending to Anoka."

Mr. Eastman now turned his attention to improving Nicollet Island. It was platted and on Eastman avenue he built sixty fine stone tenement houses, part of which he has recently changed into flats. On the lower end of the island he built two long blocks, which he used for factory purposes. On Grove street he built his residence, one of the finest in the city, surrounded by beautiful grounds. On the same street are the residences of his brothers, Hasket and George, and his sisters, Mrs. John De Laitre and Mrs. Secombe.

When the Northern Pacific Company was begun, Mr. Eastman was one of the construction company that built the first section of that road, extending from Duluth to the Red river. This was completed in 1872.

Some years ago Mr. Eastman negotiated the sale of the East Side Water Power from Mr. Butterfield, of New York, to Mr. James J. Hill, of St. Paul, the consideration being $400,000. He received as commission for making this deal one of the best equipped saw mills on the falls, and also three mill sites with power. This power he transferred by cable to his factory buildings on the lower end of Nicollet Island.

A few years ago Mr. Eastman formed a company that purchased the consolidated breweries of Minneapolis. The capitalization is $1,500,000. The breweries having an annual capacity of 500,000 barrels. He is now president of this company, and one of the largest stockholders. He organized the company that built the Syndicate Block on Nicollet Avenue, and had charge of its erection. It is one of the largest blocks in America, and is capitalized for $1,000,000. He is now president of this company, and also a large stockholder. He also built on his own account the Eastman Block on Nicollet Avenue. In recent years he has erected a large magnificent hotel at Hot Springs, Arkansas, called the Hotel Eastman. It is one of the largest and best equipped in the country, and classed with the Ponce de Leon at Jacksonville.

Other lines of business he is at present engaged in may be mentioned: sheep raising in Montana; the wholesale grocery house of Dunham & Eastman, one of the leading concerns of Minneapolis; and he is also general manager of the Island Power Co., with a capitalization of $140,000.

Mr. Eastman has persistently declined running for any political office, but has accepted reluctantly several positions of trust, such as director in several of the banks, and assignee in settling up some large estates, such as that of W. D. Washburn, when, with H. T. Welles and Capt. John Martin, he accomplished what was considered a master-piece of financial management.

He has been a liberal contributor to public and private charities, but has always insisted that his name be withheld in connection with such contributions.

During his entire life he has never been blessed with vigorous health, and for many years it has been necessary to seek a residence in the south during the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Eastman have always borne a conspicuous part in the social life of the city, and their elegant home on Nicollet Island is often open for social entertainment. They are prominent members in the Church of the Redeemer, and liberal supporters of its religious work.

O. address is Nicollet Island, Minneapolis, Minn.

Hon. D. A. Secombe was a native of New Hampshire, and a graduate of Dartmouth College, and was for about forty years actively engaged in the successful practice of law in Minneapolis. He was one of the number to draw up the state constitution, and was a leading member of the first legislature of Minnesota. Here he prepared and carried the constitutional amendment, limiting the legislative session to sixty days. He served for some time as county attorney. The Hennepin Bar Association, in its tribute of respect on the death of Mr. Secombe, said :

“ He stood among the brightest and ablest lawyers of this state. His integrity was never questioned. He was kind and courteous towards his brethren. In the statement of a legal proposition, or of the facts in a case, he was a master not surpassed by any one in his profession. His arguments were always clear, concise and logical. He was always self-reliant, self-possessed, and impressed one as having a wonderful amount of reserve power. He was dignified, polite and manly under all circumstances, never forgetting that he was a true gentleman.”

The Hon. John De Laittre is a native of Ellsworth, Me. In 1865 Mr. and Mrs. De Laittre came to Minneapolis. He is largely interested in the lumber business, the firm being the Bovey-De Laittre Lumber Co. He also has a large saw mill at Cloquet. He has been president of the Nicollet National Bank ; also vice-president of the Farmers' and Mechanics' Savings Bank, in which he takes an active part in the management.

GEORGE H. EASTMAN (1817).

In 1877 he was elected mayor of Minneapolis. In 1879 Governor Pillsbury appointed him state prison inspector, in which position he served until he resigned in 1887. He was one of the commissioners that constructed the new city hall and court house of Minneapolis, the largest building in Minnesota, and is now serving as commissioner from his district for the construction of the magnificent state capitol at St. Paul.

Although a very active man in his private business and public affairs, he has given considerable time to travel abroad and to literary culture at home.

John Holmes Morey fitted for college at the Methodist Institute, Tilton, N. H., but never entered college. He studied music, and after he had taken twelve lessons, his teacher said that there was no use for her to teach him any more as he knew more than she did. Then he went to Manchester and took lessons of Mr. Baldwin. Then he came to Concord, N. H., and studied with Mr. James M. Tracy. He then went to Charlestown, S. C., and taught the piano and organ; was director of the Choralphene Society there for a season, but the climate not agreeing with him, he returned to Concord, and entered into musical relationship with "Uncle Ben" Davis, and so continued from 1852 until his death. Mr. Morey was an artist, a composer and a most agreeable gentlemen.

HORACE T. EASTMAN (1137).

County, N. Y., Tuesday, Feb. 26, 1828; died in Anna, Ill.,
 Jan. 19, 1897, daughter of Libeus and Mercy (Smith) Snow.
 In 1845 Mr. Eastman went to work for the Mad River and Lake Erie Railroad Co., which was the first railroad built in Ohio. This road runs from Sandusky to Dayton, Ohio.

He remained in the employ of the company eleven years, the last five as master carpenter. In 1847 he invented and made the first pilot ever used on any railroad, and which is in universal use to-day. He never got out a patent. In 1856 he removed to Anna, Ill., where he bought a tract of land, which to-day is one of the most fruitful farms in southern Illinois. He run the farm, had a large dairy, and worked at his trade, but at the death of his wife, gave up his farm to his two sons. He lives in Anna, Ill. He takes a great interest in the history of his ancestors.

Dr. Eastman was a farmer boy, whose education was obtained at the district school and at the North Conway Academy, which he attended irregularly till he was eighteen years old. He then spent three years in mercantile life, afterwards studying medicine and graduating at the College of Physicians and Surgeons, medical department of Columbia University, in March, 1862. A few months after graduating he was appointed assistant physician to the New Hampshire Asylum for the Insane, where he remained three years. He then became assistant physician at the Government Hospital for the Insane, Washington, D. C., which place he filled for seven years, until he received the appointment of superintendent of the Worcester, Mass., Lunatic Hospital. He held this position seven years, during which time the new hospital building near Lake Quinsigamond was erected from his plans and under his supervision. Competent critics have pronounced this the best planned hospital of its class in the country. He was then called to Topeka, Kan., to open the partially built Kansas State Insane Asylum. He remained in charge about eighteen years, completed the institution with many improvements of his own device upon the original plan. When the Populist craze swept over Kansas and gained control of the state government, Dr. Eastman was displaced for political reasons, and has since resided at Topeka. He is a member of several medical societies, and was the founder of the New England Psychological Society. He is Professor of Materia Medica and Therapeutics, and Professor of Psychiatry in the Kansas Medical College. He resides in Topeka, Kan.

Sawyer, born ——. Mr. Eastman is a Congregational minister, residing in Danbury, N. H. He graduated from the Bangor, Me., Theological Seminary in the class of 1871, and has been engaged as a minister since that time. He has held pastorates in Wilton, Gray, Fort Fairfield, Hiram, South Bridgton, and Bromfield, Me., North Conway, Center Ossipee, and Danbury, N. H. Edward Payson enlisted Sept. 1, 1864, for one year in Company E, 1st Regt. of N. H. H. A.; mustered in Sept. 5, 1864, as private; mustered out June 15, 1865. The companies of this regiment as fast as organized, were ordered to Washington, D. C., and assigned to duty under the direction of Major-General Auger. During the winter of 1864-5, and until the muster out of the regiment, it garrisoned a line of works in defence of the capital, ten miles in extent. The duty of the regiment was important to the safety of our nation's capital, and oftentimes arduous.

Hon. John Walker, born in Burlington, Mass., May 31, 1810, died in Lovell, Me., Dec. 30, 1898. Mr. Walker was a farmer and lumberman; in politics he was a Democrat; in religion, was a Universalist. He was a member of the legislature, representing his class of towns. He filled with great ability the office of county commissioner of Oxford county, Me.; also filled various town offices. In his young manhood days he taught school, and later held the office of school supervisor. He was a man of excellent memory and a great reader, whereby he always kept well posted on all the current events of the day. On Jan. 5, 1887, Mr. and Mrs. Walker celebrated their golden wedding. On this occasion their children and grandchildren, with other relatives, and their many friends, united with them at their pleasant home in No. 4, in Lovell, to enjoy and help to make memorable this happy event of their lives. Mrs. Walker was a very industrious housekeeper, and one of the kindest of mothers, taking upon herself the many cares of a large family. She was always an active participant in all matters relating to the good and welfare of her family and friends throughout the many years of her most useful life. Her house had been the scene of many a social gathering of relatives and friends, the last of these being on her golden wedding day, which took place but a short time previous to her death.

He resided in Lovell, Me., where all his children were born. Mr. Cutler distinguished himself by his enterprising and public spirit, being not only sheriff of his county, but a member of the governor's council in the year of 1855. In September, 1857, he removed with his family to the state of Minnesota. In 1862 he enlisted in the army, and in the same year was appointed quartermaster of the 7th Minn. Vol. Inf., and with the rank of captain, was post commissary of subsistence at Prairie du Chien. He served with the army during the war, and at the close returned to Anoka, Minn., and resumed his business as a merchant and lumber dealer.

Plummer, born September 4, 1832, daughter of Stephen and Ella (Howe) Plummer, of Waterford, Me. They began their married life on the farm upon which his father so long resided in Lovell. In May, 1881, Mr. Eastman removed to Lancaster, N. H., where they have since resided. His main occupation has been farming; going into the woods as a repairer for lumbermen in their winter operations. Since 1898 he has been sorely afflicted, caused by a frozen foot some fifteen years previous, resulting in a partial loss of his foot. Mr. Eastman has always been ready to lend his assistance in the distress of others, acting many times as nurse to those in sickness and distress, for which he is substantially remembered by his friends. Mrs. Eastman previous to her marriage was a school teacher, in which vocation she was very successful.

She died in Dowagiac, Mich., April 28, 1892.

Mr. Rix taught school for twenty years, mostly winters. Learned the trade of edge tool making, and followed it all his life. He was a well read man, and but for an unfortunate habit would have made his mark in the world.

He was a man that read a good deal and kept posted on the political questions of the day; was a great admirer of Henry Clay, whom he listened to quite often when he was a member of congress. Mr. Rix was a rover, made so by his trade, as he took contracts to make edge tools, and when completed, would move to other places. He was very skilful in tempering, and his success was such that mill picks followed him wherever he would go. The birth-place of his children shows where he lived. He was a staunch Democrat all his life. During the war of 1861-5 he was an earnest supporter of the government, and sent seven sons to the war, all he had, and his two sons-in-law as well, and would have gone himself if the government had accepted him. He was lame from a boy by his hip being put out of joint.

CHILDREN ALL BORN IN UNION CITY, IND. (OHIO SIDE).

- 1938.
  - ii. Hubert Sherman<sup>8</sup>, b. July 28, 1864; killed by electric car in Anderson, Ind., Dec. 28, 1895. He obtained his education in the common schools of his native town and working during vacation. On the completion of his studies in school he took a course in the Dayton Commercial College, Dayton, Ohio. He then returned to Union City and entered the railroad office, where he was made chief clerk to his father, who was roadmaster. He rose rapidly in railroad circles, and became assistant chief clerk in the general office of the company at Indianapolis, Ind. From here he went to Cincinnati as private secretary to the chief engineer of the "Big Four" system. By changes in office duties he was transferred to the superintendent's office at Sandusky, Ohio, but remained but a short time, when he returned to Union City and temporarily resumed his place in the roadmaster's office. During his stay at Union City he was elected to the city council of the Ohio side. While in this body, with strong opposition, he assisted in passing a temperance ordinance which meant much to the citizens of that city. In June, 1892, he removed to Anderson, Ind., to become chief bookkeeper in the office of the Indiana Box and Lumber Company. Here he united with the Methodist Episcopal church, and became an earnest and devout worker for the Master. He married, in Ansonia, Ohio, May 10, 1891, Alice Myrtle Bailey, born in Ansonia, Ohio, Feb. 18, 1867, daughter of Jacob and Mary Jane Bailey. They had one child, nameless, born Aug. 5, 1895; died —. He had a lovely wife, and spent but little time away from home. On the eve of his death he left his home to attend to some necessary duties in the city, taking a car that his stay might be as short as possible, and on reaching his destination stepped off the car, which was moving slowly, but on account of a heavy sleet, his footing gave way, allowing him to fall under the wheels of the trailer, killing him instantly. He was taken home, where he was buried Dec. 31, 1895.

On the day of his marriage, he left his native state for New Comerstown, Tuscarawas county, Ohio, where he spent one year under the patronage of the "Home Missionary Society." The next six months he preached at Coshocton. In June, the same year, he removed to Union, Ross county, Ohio, where he was installed over a Presbyterian church, where he labored faithfully for twenty years. In 1864, while preparing to attend the "Soldiers' Aid Society," of which his wife was president, she accidentally dropped a pair of scissors on her foot, resulting in blood poisoning that caused intense suffering at times. Her devotion to her Savior was rewarded by his constant companionship, making her seemingly joyous many times when pain was most excruciating. She was afflicted with abscesses on her lungs, the last one causing her death. After a protracted affliction of about three years, and the loss of a limb, he resigned his charge and removed to Piketon, Ohio, where he was principal of the public schools from 1867 to 1870. Here he filled vacant pulpits occasionally. In 1871 he removed to Kingston, and taught in the Academy there, and filled vacant pulpits occasionally. In 1874 he returned to Union, where he owned and enjoyed a home. Here he taught in the district schools, preached in Greenland until 1882. During the heated term of 1855, he was stricken with ephasia, causing partial loss of speech. He was tenderly cared for by his two unmarried daughters and only son, and loved to visit with his friends. During a private "communion" season at his home, surrounded by four brother ministers and several neighbors and friends, while singing "Nearer my God to Thee," "He was not, for God took him." Dropsy of the heart was the autopsy. Rev. Mr. Eastman graduated from Dartmouth College in the class of 1842; from Andover in 1845.

1366. Lewis Daniel Eastman<sup>7</sup> (Morgan Lewis<sup>6</sup>, Abihue<sup>5</sup>, Benjamin<sup>4</sup>, Peter<sup>3</sup>, Joseph<sup>2</sup>, Roger<sup>1</sup>), born in Lisbon, St. Lawrence county, N. Y., Oct. 18, 1851; married in Bloomfield, Ohio, Dec. 1, 1897, Clara Baker, born in Bloomfield, Ohio, Dec. 13, 1865, daughter of Hiram Baker, of Bloomfield, Ohio. Mrs. Eastman was, previous to her marriage, a teacher in the High School in Menominee, Mich. His mother was Evilina Hester Thorpe, instead of Emeline, as is given on page 417. Mr. Eastman's early education was obtained in the schools of his native town, but in the winter of 1868-1869, his parents removed to Wisconsin, settling in Royalton, where he worked at farming until 1880, and all the while pursuing his studies as the opportunity offered. In 1880 he gave up farming for the law, and after two years of hard study was admitted to the bar, hanging out his shingle in Kaukauna, Wis., where he remained one year. Although meeting with good success in his chosen profession, he closed his office and accepted a flattering offer to teach in the State Reform School at Pontiac, Ill., where he remained for five years, during the last year holding the position of assistant superintendent of the school. Resigning the position he entered the law department of the Northwestern University, of Chicago, graduating with high honors in June, 1888.

Shortly afterwards he located at Owosso, Shiawassee county, Mich., remaining there about a year, when he removed to Menominee, Mich., and has resided there since. From the beginning of his practice in Menominee, it has steadily increased. In 1890 Governor Rich appointed him circuit court commissioner, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Howard Thompson. At the expiration of the term he was re-elected by the people, and fulfilling the duties of the office satisfactorily, was retained for a period of six years. The council, in 1897, appointed Mr. Eastman city attorney, and in recognition of his excellent administration of the affairs of the office, he was reappointed in 1898 and 1900. They reside in a pleasant home at No. 219 Stephenson avenue, where a gracious hospitality is dispensed. He is a member and trustee of the First Presbyterian church.

so low he erected a distillery, and fed at one time one hundred and fifty head of cattle. The high wines were shipped by the lake to market. Although the distillery was profitable in a monetary sense, his strong temperance views caused him to abandon that business. Owing to the large production of live stock in that new country prices became very low, and there opened to his mind the possibilities of profitably marketing the excess of cattle to New York city, by driving them in droves of two hundred or more. This venture warranted a continuance of the business until 1855, when the completion of the now L. S. & M. S. R. R. rendered the driving unprofitable, though he continued as a dealer several years, shipping by the railway. Previous to the organization of the Free Soil party, he was a Democrat. He believed in freedom in its broadest sense, and he followed that movement thence into the Republican party, and was an active worker, and during the dark days from the opening to the close of the Civil War, he was always earnest in sustaining the government by acts and deeds. He was contemporaneous with Joshua R. Giddings and Benjamin F. Wade, citizens of an adjoining town, and with them was active in trying to break the shackles from the bondmen of the south. His home was on the line of one of the branches of the "Underground railroad." He took an active part in the establishing of Kingsville Academy, in 1836 and 1837, which was the leading educational institution in northeastern Ohio, until the opening of the Civil War. He was always active in educational matters, and urged young people to take advantage of the opportunities he did not have in his day. In 1837 he bought three hundred and forty acres of land in the adjoining town of Sheffield, and moved there in 1838. In 1839 he erected a brick house on the farm. The water table, window caps and sills, together with the steps, were cut by him from stone purchased in the adjoining state of Pennsylvania. The property passed into other hands in 1880, but the house was so well constructed that though sixty-two years have passed, the foundations and walls remain perfect. His was an active, moral, and temperate life. He was a great lover of children and young people, and was never happier than when they crowded his hospitable home, and where they knew that "Uncle Porter" and "Aunt Phoebe" had a warm welcome for them.

GEORGE W. EASTMAN (1879).

1379. George Washington Eastman<sup>7</sup> (Harvey<sup>6</sup>, Hezekiah<sup>5</sup>, Joseph<sup>4</sup>, Peter<sup>3</sup>, Joseph<sup>2</sup>, Roger<sup>1</sup>), born in Marshall, Oneida county, N. Y., Sept. 9, 1815, on the farm purchased by Joseph Eastman<sup>4</sup> in 1797; died in Rochester, N. Y., April 27, 1862; buried in the cemetery at Waterville, N. Y., a part of which village is in the township in which he was born. He married Maria Kilbourn, Sept. 25, 1844. After leaving the district school, which was located near the family homestead, Mr. Eastman attended for a short time Hamilton Academy, Madison county, and Amenia Seminary, Dutchess county. As a boy and young man he showed great aptitude in the use of the pen, and when quite young began giving instructions in the art of penmanship, of which he became one of the most proficient and expert masters of the age in which he lived. His success as a teacher of penmanship in the nearby towns, as well as at the Seminary at Amenia, opened to him the possibilities of a much greater success and a wider field, by the establishing of a permanent institution in which should be taught, not only the art of penmanship, but that of bookkeeping and the science of accounts. His ambition in that direction culminated in the opening of the Rochester Mercantile College in 1842, the first of its kind established in this country. Notwithstanding the field in which he entered was a new one, the venture proved a success, and fully justified the movement in that direction. In 1847 he published a work on single and double entry bookkeeping which was the standard work on the science of accounts for many years, and was introduced into the school as a text-book. Being a man of quick perceptions, he readily saw the need of something more tangible than text-books and manuscripts in preparing young men to enter the counting room as thorough and safe accountants. While working to meet these exigencies he conceived the idea of introducing actual transactions, and putting into daily practice that which had heretofore been only theoretical. Thus in 1858 there was introduced into the Rochester Mercantile College the various departments of banking, forwarding and commission, insurance, brokerage, and jobbing and wholesale houses, thus giving the student, in a few months, practical advantages that in ordinary routine would require years to accomplish. To him belongs the honor of founding the school which is the prototype of similar schools of the present day. He had a great love for horticulture and floriculture, and his own garden was always filled with the choicest fruits and rarest flowers. He started and conducted a large nursery, and was really one of the pioneer nurserymen of central New York. Mr. Eastman was a true lover of nature, and no sportsman enjoyed a holiday more, with dog and gun, or fly rod and basket, than did the subject of this sketch, and none were more successful in returning home with well filled game bag or fish basket.

Maria Kilbourn, wife of George Washington Eastman, was born in Marshall, Oneida county, N. Y., Aug. 22, 1821, on the farm owned by her parents, Thomas and Mary Kilbourn. Her education was obtained at Vernon Academy, Oneida county, and later at Kellogg's Seminary, at Clinton, Oneida county, N. Y. The twenty-fifth of September, 1844, she married George Washington Eastman, and removed with him to Rochester, N. Y., where they lived for four years. They then removed to Waterville, residing there until 1861, when they returned to Rochester, where Mrs. Eastman still resides. They had three children. Mrs. Eastman, now in her eighty-first year, lives at the residence of her son, George Eastman, where she presides with grace and dignity, and all the vigor of a younger woman. Keen and vigorous of mind, she takes a lively interest in all the leading questions of the day. She has traveled extensively, and every year she adds to her knowledge of the world in this way. She takes a deep interest in the educational and moral improvement of her home city, and there is hardly an institution of learning or charity in Rochester that has not felt the inspiration of her interest and the help of her generosity. Mrs. Eastman is a communicant of St. Paul's Church, of Rochester, and shows an active interest in all its work. It is said that she has always taken a lively interest in the varied business activities of her son, and that much of his success is due to her counsel and encouragement. Perhaps her most remarkable trait is the attraction she has for younger people. Her house is eagerly sought by young men and women, who find her friendship and companionship a constant help and benefit.

- iii. George<sup>8</sup>, b. in Waterville, N. Y., July 12, 1854. In 1861 he moved, with his parents, to Rochester, N. Y., where he has since resided. He attended the public and private schools of Rochester until the age of fourteen, when he entered as office boy the insurance office of Cornelius Waydell. The following year, 1869, he transferred into the office of Buell & Brewster, also insurance agents, and remained there until the year 1874, when he obtained a clerkship in the Rochester Savings Bank. He remained in the bank until September, 1881, when he resigned to enable him to give his whole attention to the manufacture of photographic dry plates. For the previous two years, during his spare time while in the employ of the bank, he had been experimenting in photography, and in the spring of 1880 he had perfected a process for manufacturing sensitive gelatine dry plates. He was one of the pioneers in the business. The first factory he fitted up occupied one floor in a small building on State street, where he conducted the business under the name of "The Eastman Dry Plate Company." The business since has expanded from the manufacture of dry plates only, into a large variety of photographic specialties, including cameras, many kinds of sensitive papers, and rollable transparent films. At the present time the allied Kodak companies employ capital aggregating many millions of dollars, and give direct employment to over thirty-five hundred people, and have factories or branches in all of the principal countries of the world. Mr. Eastman is president of the Eastman Kodak Company, and of the General Aristo Company, managing director of Kodak, Limited, and a director in Eastman Kodak Soci t  Anonyme Francaise, and Eastman Kodak Gesellschaft. His principal work in photography has been in the direction of simplifying and cheapening its processes, so as to permit of the practice and use of the art by the masses. He invented the first plate coating machine, patented 1880; the first commercially successful rollable film, patented 1884; the original film camera, patented 1888, first made famous by the phrase (originated by Mr. Eastman), "You press the button, we do the rest," which, in connection with his invention of the film, reduced photography to the "you press the button" stage, thereby enabling hundreds of thousands to take pictures who could not devote time to learning the technical side of the art. Cameras of various forms made by his companies have obtained a world-wide reputation under the name of Kodak, invented by him. Later, Mr. Eastman invented the first machine for making rollable transparent film, patented 1890. Nearly all of the film used up to the present time has been made upon this machine. In 1900 the French government conferred upon him the decoration of Chevalier of the Legion of Honour. Mr. Eastman is a member of the board of trustees of the Rochester Trust and Safe Deposit Company, the Security Trust Company, the Rochester Savings Bank, a director of the Alliance Bank, a member of the board of managers of the Hom opathic Hospital, the Rochester Orphan Asylum, and the Rochester Athen um and Mechanics Institute, a member of the Genesee Valley and Country Clubs, all of Rochester, and of the National Arts and Strollers Clubs, of New York.

She was left without a mother when less than two years old, but was cared for by a stepmother. When about twelve or thirteen years of age, she spent a couple of winters in Ridgefield, Conn., with her maternal grandmother, and there attended the public schools where she met Napoleon B. Turner, her senior by one year. Though they were but mere children they fell in love at first sight. They were married at her father's residence in New Fairfield, in March, 1834, when she was but sixteen years old and he only seventeen. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Heman Bangs, who said that they were the youngest as well as the handsomest couple he ever married.

Napoleon B. Turner was born in Kent, N. Y., June 1, 1816, but lived in Ridgefield all his life. Phebe Jane died of consumption on Sunday, Feb. 26, 1843, aged twenty-five years and eight months. Her funeral occurred at the Methodist church in New Fairfield, and she was buried there in the Methodist burying-ground by the side of her mother. Her husband never re-married, and died eleven years later while traveling in the South, at Glasgow, Ky., Sept. 27, 1854. He was brought to Danbury, Conn., and buried, and though his wife's name is graven on his stone, she has never been removed from her original resting place.

the news of President Lincoln's being shot rang over the wires in 1865. On Feb. 21, 1871, he came to Rondout, Ulster Co., N. Y., since incorporated into the city of Kingston, where he has since resided. The next day he accepted a position as clerk in a bookstore and telegraph operator, his employer being superintendent of telegraph of the line. His employer was also postmaster of the then Rondout postoffice, and he was at once sworn in as clerk in the postoffice, every day dividing his time between the two places. He continued doing so until May 9, 1877, when he resigned from the bookstore and became deputy postmaster under a new postmaster. This position he retained until Dec. 1, 1880, when he resigned and became bookkeeper in the general office of the Wallkill Valley Railroad Company. He served as such until Feb. 14, 1882, when he entered the employ of Samuel D. Coykendall, the railroad and steamboat magnate, where he has been ever since that time. He at once became auditor and general bookkeeper of the Stony Clove & Catskill Mountain Railroad Company, and served as such until July 1, 1893, when the company was sold to another corporation. At the same time, Feb. 14, 1882, he became bookkeeper of the Kingston City Railroad Company, and on Oct. 1, 1884, became auditor, which position he held until Jan. 16, 1901, when Mr. Coykendall, who owned all of the stock, sold it to another corporation, and the management was changed. On April 10, 1895, he became secretary and treasurer of the Rhinebeck & Kingston Ferry Company, and is still serving as such. On Jan. 19, 1901, he became head bookkeeper of the Cornell Steamboat Company (the largest towing corporation in the world), and of the New York & Rosendale Cement Company. He is a member of the "National Association of Accountants and Bookkeepers." On Sept. 23, 1874, he married Miss Kate Preston, who was born at Rondout, Ulster county, N. Y., Feb. 13, 1854, and their married life has been unusually happy. On Sept. 1, 1884, he was appointed treasurer of the Board of Education of Ulster Academy, and has been reappointed every year since. Oscar united with the Baptist Church at Ontario, N. Y., in 1866, and transferred to Rondout, when he moved there. He has since served the church as clerk for twenty-one years, trustee and treasurer for fifteen years, member of the prudential committee for nineteen years, and early in 1901 was elected deacon. On Dec. 15, 1894, he became a life member of the Eastman Family Association of the United States. He is a member of the various Masonic bodies in the American Rite; is a past master, past district deputy grand master, grand representative, and assistant grand lecturer in Symbolic Masonry; past high priest, past grand master of First Veil, and assistant grand lecturer in Capitular Masonry, and a past commander in the Commandery of Knights Templar. He is a thirty-second degree Mason in the Ancient Accepted Scottish Rite, northern jurisdiction, a noble of the Mystic Shrine, and a member of the Masonic Veterans' Association, the Masonic Historical Society of the State of New York, the Fraternal Union of Anointed High Priests of the State of New York, the New York Society of the Order of Founders and Patriots of America. He is also a member of the Order of the Eastern Star, is patron of his local chapter, and assistant grand lecturer under the grand chapter. On Aug. 30, 1867, he became a member of the Independent Order of Good Templars, and has kept his membership intact to the present time, having received and used every quarterly password from the first. Has served in various offices, and is a past chief Templar, past lodge deputy, past county chief Templar, past county deputy, past grand assistant secretary of the Grand Lodge, and is an honorary member of the International Supreme Lodge. When the supreme lodge established the three years' course of reading, he enrolled as a member and graduated with the first or pioneer class, thereby receiving the degree of Master of Royal Templars.

medicine and entered into practice at Newmarket, N. H., and about 1839 he located at Hampstead, N. H., where, except during his military life, he was in active practice. He had been a member of the New Hampshire Medical Society over fifty years, and was its president in 1860. He was a member of the Rockingham Medical Society, and was twice its president. He was also an honored member of the American Medical Association, whose meetings he frequently attended as a delegate from New Hampshire, and was one of the three delegates from New Hampshire to the great International Medical Congress, held at Philadelphia in 1876. His favorite branches of practice were surgery and obstetrics, and he had attended at the births of four thousand five hundred children who lived, and of whom he kept a record. He was appointed by Governor Berry surgeon of the Fourth New Hampshire Volunteers, with rank of major, and accompanied the regiment to Washington, Annapolis, Port Royal, Hilton Head, St. Augustine, and Jacksonville, Fla., doing laborious service for two years, when, on account of illness in his family, he resigned and returned to Hampstead. Shortly afterwards he declined the colonelcy of a new regiment which was offered him, although it would have been in accord with his tastes. When a mere lad he had been appointed a cadet at West Point, but he declined the appointment at the urgent request of his widowed mother. Subsequently, he held every rank in the New Hampshire militia from private to colonel. In politics Dr. Eastman was a staunch Democrat. In 1845 he was county treasurer, and was renominated in 1847, but declined the honor. The strength of his political principles is illustrated by the fact that when he was in the senate the "Knownothings" urged him to accept the nomination for governor, but he indignantly refused the proffered bribe, although he might have been easily elected. For years he was one of the standard bearers of the party, and was its candidate for councillor at two elections. He was a délégate to the national convention which nominated McClellan, as was also Horatio Seymour. Dr. Eastman was in practice within about a year of his death, and was very active for a man of his years. He was confined to his bed but five days.

She died at the home of her son, Ebenezer F., in Weston, Vt., on Christmas day, 1886. Mr. Eastman's early life was of good repute, but it gave no indication of the nature of his life work. He had no special educational advantages, attending only the common schools of his native city. His religious life began when he was twenty-three years of age, at which time he was converted and united with the Baptist church in Georgetown, Mass. He received his license from the church in Georgetown, Mass., Aug. 2, 1850. Three years later he was ordained pastor of the Baptist church in Danbury, N. H., Sept. 28, 1853. Two thirds of his ministry was spent in New Hampshire, where he held six pastorates, two in Danbury, one in Newton, Dunbarton, Woodstock, and Sutton, respectively. Between 1869 and 1873, while city missionary in Concord, N. H., he held the first open air service in that city, preached the first sermon ever delivered before the prisoners in the Merrimack county jail, and was afterwards made chaplain of the New Hampshire state prison. One season he held services at the Twin Mountain House, White Mountains, N. H. He removed to Andover, Vt., where he held pastorate till his death. Previous to this last, he held pastorate over the church in Weston, Vt., for five years.

In May, 1861, he went to Island Falls, Me., where, in 1862, he enlisted in the Eighteenth Maine Infantry as private; was promoted to corporal, sergeant, and first sergeant. The regiment reached Washington the last of August, 1862, and was put in the defences of that city. In the fall the regiment was changed to the First Maine Heavy Artillery, and when the organization was completed he was commissioned second lieutenant, Company M, Feb., 1864. The regiment remained in the defences of Washington until May 15, 1864, when it left to join the Army of the Potomac at Spottsylvania, Va., where it arrived on the eighteenth, and the next day was in its first battle, at Spottsylvania, Va. The next battle was in front of Cold Harbor, Va., though the regiment was under fire at North Anna. On the eighteenth of June, in front of Petersburg, Va., the regiment lost over six hundred in killed and wounded, two hundred and ten of them killed and died of wounds. This regiment sustained the heaviest loss in killed of any organization during the whole war. Lieutenant Eastman was with his regiment in every battle in which it was engaged till he was wounded, June 18, 1864. On the twenty-seventh of Oct., 1864, he was discharged on account of wounds received in battle. In May, 1865, he was appointed clerk in the war department, in Washington, D. C., where he resided till 1875, when he removed to Falls Church, Va., where he now resides. For nine years he was a member and deacon of the First Congregational church in Washington, D. C., and is holding the same position in Falls Church. He is still in the war department.

Y., Aug. 27, 1839; married Oct. 2, 1866, Mary Elizabeth Scoville, born in Watertown, N. Y., Oct. 11, 1840, daughter of Harlow and Alzina (Jillson) Scoville. Mr. Eastman enlisted May 7, 1861, in Company H, First New York Volunteers, as private, Col. William H. Allen. He was then of Aurora, N. Y. The regiment was recruited and organized in New York city, to serve two years. It left the state May 29, 1861, under the command of Gen. B. F. Butler; arrived at Fortress Monroe, Va., May 31, 1861; served at that place to July 3; at Newport News, Va., to March, 1862; in first brigade, first division, Department of Virginia, to June 6, 1862; in third brigade, third division, third corps, Army of the Potomac, to July, 1862; in the second brigade, first division, third corps, Army of the Potomac, to Oct., 1862, and to May 25, 1863, at which date he was mustered out in the third brigade, same division and corps. He was in the battles of Big Bethel, Va., the first battle of the war, June 10, 1861; Hampton Roads, Va., March 8 and 9, 1862; in the campaign before Richmond, Va., from Seven Pines to Malvern Hill, Va., ending July 1, 1862; battle of Chantilly, Va., Sept. 1, 1862, when he was severely wounded by a bullet in the neck and shoulder; recovered and rejoined his regiment, and was in the battle of Fredericksburg, Va., Dec. 11 to 15, 1862; in the battle of Chancellorsville, Va., May 1 to 5, his term of enlistment expiring during the battle. He was also in the second battle of Bull Run, Va., Aug. 29 and 30, 1862. He was color bearer some months; promoted to second lieutenant in July, 1862, and first lieutenant in Oct., 1862. After the war he studied law at Albany, N. Y., settled in Cedar Rapids, Ia., where he practiced his profession twenty years, when in 1885 he removed to St. Paul, Minn., and in 1896 removed to Lake Charles, La., where he is manager of the North American Land and Timber Company, a position for which his wide business experience in the Northwest had peculiarly fitted him. Besides being influential in affairs, Mr. Eastman is not less widely known and respected for his ability than for his personal qualities, in which charm of manner and high-mindedness are united with broad general culture. He is a member of the Presbyterian church, a Freemason, and in politics a staunch Republican.

Mr. Eastman received his education in the town schools and at the Colebrook Academy. After leaving school, he learned the carpenter's trade, working with his father until he was eighteen years of age, when he secured a position in a drug store of John S. Coburn, in Colebrook, where the post-office was located, and was appointed assistant postmaster. In August, 1887, as soon as he was old enough to be qualified to hold the position, he received the appointment of postmaster at Colebrook. He held this office till 1890, and during this time he was also express agent, and also engaged in a private banking business under the name of the Colebrook Banking Co., this being the first banking institution in that section.

On Sept. 1, 1890, Mr. Eastman went to Berlin, N. H., then a small village, now grown to a city of several thousand population. Here he opened a private bank as the Bank of Berlin, and on Feb. 18, 1891, the Berlin National Bank was organized, mainly through the efforts of Mr. Eastman, and he was its first cashier, which position he held till his election as vice-president, Jan. 8, 1901, which position he now holds. This bank is in a very prosperous condition, which speaks well for its management. In 1899 Mr. Eastman organized the Farmers' and Traders' National Bank, of Colebrook, N. H., and was chosen the bank's first president. Through the efforts of Mr. Eastman, the North Conway Loan and Banking Co. commenced business in July, 1900, located at North Conway, N. H. He organized the Groveton National Bank at Groveton, N. H., in February, 1900, of which bank he is now vice-president. In September, 1900, Mr. Eastman was elected a director in the Berlin Savings Bank and Trust Co., where he is largely interested as a stockholder, as also in the Colebrook National Bank, Colebrook, N. H. On May 7, 1901, he was chosen a director and vice-president of the American National Bank, of Boston, Mass., a new banking institution, in the organization of which Mr. Eastman was deeply interested. On Oct. 8, 1891, the People's Building and Loan Association was opened for business through the efforts of Mr. Eastman, and he is director, secretary, and treasurer of this association. In September, 1890, he was chosen director of the Berlin Building and Loan Association, in which he is the largest shareholder. Mr. Eastman is the treasurer of the Bethlehem Electric Light Co., of Bethlehem, N. H., and a large owner of the stock.

Mr. Eastman is a Mason (F. A. M.), being a member of Evening Star Lodge, No. 37, of Colebrook, N. H. In 1890 he became an Odd Fellow and a Knight of Pythias. One of the principal social institutions of Berlin is the Maynesboro Club, which has for its members nearly all the prominent citizens of Berlin. Mr. Eastman has practically managed this club, being an officer and its treasurer since its organization in 1890. This is a temperance club and no gambling is allowed in its rooms.

Mr. Eastman is, and always has been, a Democrat in politics. In 1898 he was the Democratic candidate for treasurer of the county of Coos. In Berlin and Colebrook he ran several hundred votes ahead of his ticket, but failed of election together with the rest of the ticket. He is now (1901) treasurer of the city of Berlin, which position he has held for three years. It can be seen that Mr. Eastman is a very busy man, but he makes his business his pleasure. Although he finds pleasure in hard work, he finds his chief happiness at home with his family, to which he is unusually attached. Mrs. Eastman was one of the most popular young ladies of Berlin.

CHILDREN.

- i. Charles Albert<sup>9</sup>, b. in Rumford, Me., April 6, 1851 ; m. in Boston, Mass., May 5, 1884, Cora B. Pierce, born in Augusta, Me., Feb. 4, 1861, daughter of Weston and Nancy P. (Hallowell) Pierce, of Windsor, Me. His boyhood was spent to the age of fifteen at school in his native town. His paternal and maternal father served in the War of 1812. Dr. Eastman attended the Paris Academy, and on account of his being a frail lad, he was sent to Baltimore, Md., where he graduated from the university, after which he studied medicine in the Geneva Medical College, Geneva, N. Y., from which he graduated an M. D., in 1872. Dr. Eastman also studied medicine in the post graduate course at the Baltimore University, Baltimore, Md., and the Boston University, Boston, Mass.; was graduated and received the degree of M. D. from each, 1892 and 1893. As a physician he is quick at diagnosis, positive in his assertions, and ever ready in emergencies. His knowledge of normal anatomy and physiology, with his quick insight, keen analytical mind, and logical management of symptoms, make his diagnoses almost seem like intuition. Of sturdy honesty in his chosen profession, he abhors above all things anything pertaining to quackery either in or out of the profession, never putting himself forward, still ever at the front, from his own inherent powers. Progressive in all things, he is eminently so in his adoption of later discoveries in medicine and surgery, not being bound by the old, unless tried and true, but proving for himself that which seemed good. He is one of the few who do not get into the rut of routine never to get out of it, and his reading and study are constant, and he stands among the progressive men of his profession. Dr. Eastman removed to Winthrop, a suburb of Boston, in 1887, and has practiced his profession in Boston and vicinity since. In 1899 he purchased the Lowell House, at Old Orchard, Me., and established the Old Orchard Sanitarium and Eastman Inn, which are under his own supervision, and have become popular. As a citizen he has always been foremost in every movement for the improvement of his town and state, and is a leader in public, humane, and charitable work. Though never a seeker for office, he has often been called to positions of honor and trust. In 1896 he was a delegate to the Massachusetts Republican Convention and voted for the renomination of Governor Greenhalge; he has filled the position of superintendent of the Middletown Hospital, and surgeon on the staff of the Exeter, N. H., Cottage Hospital, and has filled various positions in his native state. Dr. Eastman at the

Gilman Tuttle was born in Sanbornton, and Charlotte Hackett in New Hampton. The life of Charles E. Staniels is a record of great activity. He was born in Lowell, Mass., Dec. 27, 1844, the son of Edward Langmaid Staniels and Ruth Bradley (Eastman) Staniels. He was educated in the Boston public schools, at Pembroke (N. H.) Academy, and at the Roxbury (Mass.) Latin School, and in 1861 began a business career with a mercantile house in Boston. In 1865 Mr. Staniels became a commercial traveller, following that occupation for twenty years, traveling throughout the United States and Canada in the interest of one of the largest firms in the country, and winning a thorough acquaintance with men and affairs in all parts of the land. In 1886 he retired from this calling to become district superintendent of agencies for the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Co., establishing his headquarters at Concord, N. H. In this field of endeavor Mr. Staniels has won honor and enviable fame, and has taken a high rank among the brilliant and brainy men who have devoted their lives to the insurance business. As an evidence of the esteem with which Mr. Staniels is held by his associates, may be mentioned the fact that he has been secretary and president of the New Hampshire Life Underwriters' Association, and for ten years a member of the executive committee of the National Life Underwriters' Association. Mr. Staniels has also been president of the White Mountain Travelers' Association, the largest of its kind in the United States, was a member of the advisory board of the life insurance department of the Auxiliary Congress of the World's Fair, at Chicago, Ill., and was president of the New Hampshire Society of the Sons of the American Revolution for two successive terms. He was also invited to address the National Life Underwriters' convention at Cleveland in 1893, upon technical subjects. He was secretary of the Eastman Family Association for the first eight years of its existence, and by his efforts a large amount of funds was secured for the memorial fund. Mr. Staniels has for several years been a commissioned officer in the Amoskeag Veterans, the Continental company of New Hampshire. As an insurance man he is thoroughly posted in all the details of the profession. His facile pen contributes frequently to the columns of business and secular journals.

of his birth. Severe and continued illness incapacitated his grandmother for further care, and the little family was now united with that of his uncle James, who lived in another part of the house and carried on the farm. Andrew was cared for, clothed and schooled as before, until the age of fifteen. Ambitious to be earning something for himself he obtained permission to "hire out," and in April, 1862, engaged with his guardian, a near neighbor, for one year, receiving his board, five months schooling, and $25 as wages, clothing himself for the year. He was with his guardian until January, 1864, when he enlisted for the civil war, but failed to get mustered into the service. In the following spring he left his native place and went to Massachusetts and obtained work near Boston. In the fall of that year an opportunity was presented for him to attend the Franklin School in Lowell and work for his board during the winter. While here he was converted at the age of nineteen, and united with the Paige-street Free Baptist Church. While contemplating what should be his life work, the call came to him to go and preach the gospel. He took his preparatory course at New Hampton, N. H., graduating in July, 1870; matriculated at Bates College, receiving his degree of A. B. in June, 1874; entered Cobb Divinity School, a department of Bates College, the next fall, graduating in June, 1877, thus completing ten years of continuous study. His was the old story of repeated struggle and persistent hard work before the goal of final graduation was reached. Mr. Eastman's first pastorate was at Steep Falls, Standish, Me., where he was ordained Nov. 1, 1877. In the spring of 1878 he accepted a call to Grafton, Mass. While pastor there he established a new interest in the city of Worcester. Resigning at Grafton, he went to Worcester and took full charge of the Mission, in January, 1881, without stipulated salary. In April following a church of thirty-one members was organized, but the strain proving too great for him, and the church through his own efforts being in good condition, he resigned, and accepted a call from Pittsfield, N. H. Twelve years of active service as a Free Baptist minister was passed in the old "Granite State," three years at Pittsfield, four at Ashland, nearly two at Dover, and three years at Franconia. It was here that Mr. Eastman decided, after years of thought in that direction, to make a change in his ministerial relations. Resigning at Franconia, April 1, 1894, he accepted a call to the pastorate of the Congregational Church at Bethlehem, N. H., an adjoining town, beginning his labors the first of May. In June, 1898, he received and accepted a call to the pastorate of the Congregational Church at Chelsea, Vt., where he is still pastor. In every pastorate he has held, improvements in churches and parsonages have been made under his immediate supervision. Many revivals have been held, and many have given their hearts to Christ through his influence, giving all the credit to Him who "doeth all things well."

Educated in the common schools and academy of his native town and the academy of Pittsfield. The art and science of agriculture claimed much of his attention. At twenty-one years of age he was elected, and the following year re-elected, superintendent of the public schools of Gilmanton. At twenty-six he became a member of the state board of agriculture. At twenty-eight he was elected to the state legislature and re-elected the succeeding year, being a member of the committee on resolutions of the Republican State Convention. At twenty-nine he became superintendent of the State College farm, and during this service of six years was lecturer on farm topics. His experiments on scientific and practical farm problems were the first regularly published from colleges in this country, and were of an original character that attracted wide attention. From thence he went to the deanship of the agricultural faculty of the Missouri State University, and was professor of agriculture and director of experiment station. He was also secretary of the Missouri State Board of Agriculture, and secretary of the Kansas City Fat Stock Show. He accepted the presidency of the Utah College of Agriculture in 1889, then unorganized, and during the first three years made a growth unexampled in the history of agricultural colleges of the country at a similar age, securing three hundred and sixty students in a sparsely settled community. In 1894 he returned east to carry out long deferred improvements on his large farm estate, accepting the editorship of the agricultural columns of the Mirror and Farmer. He resides in Gilmanton, N. H.
